Ms. Sandra Webb

Beneath the Bars of Justice is a work of historical fiction about a 13-year-old girl who defies her parents and participates in a civil rights protest rally in July 1962. Arrested for civil disobedience in Albany, she and 66 other teenager girls spend an unforgettable week in jail in Camilla, Georgia, where they were bused after being arrested. The highlight of their week was a visit from Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. The story is a powerful lesson in courage and determination and an excellent read for both adults and teenagers.
